Meeting of the GEBIN 2009

The next meeting of the GEBIN will be held from July 8-11, 2009 at the IG Farben Building of the Johann Wolfgang Goethe University, Frankfurt am Main. The meeting will be organized as a joint meeting with the Germinal Center Conference, a prestigious international immunology meeting with special focus on germinal centers and respective immune mechanisms. The following invited speakers have already confirmed their participation: Cobi J. Heijnen (Utrecht), Christine Schütt (Greifswald), Eduardo Arzt (Buenos Aires), Hemmo Drexhage (Rotterdam), Ralf A. Linker (Bochum), Rainer H. Straub (Regensburg). As in previous years, GEBIN will offer an Educational Short Course to undergraduate/graduate students which will be organized by Adriana del Rey (Marburg).

Rainer Straub - President-Elect of the PNIRS

Rainer H. Straub, Coordinator of the GEBIN, has been elected President of the Psychoneuroimmunology Research Society (PNIRS). His presidency will start in May 2009. With Rainer Straub and Hugo Besedovsky, President of the International Society for NeuroImmunoModulation (ISNIM), the presidents of the two most prestigious societies in our field are belonging to the Steering Committee of the GEBIN.

Positions

University Hospital of Essen

The Institute of Medical Psychology and Behavioral Immunobiology at the University Hospital of Essen offers 4 PhD Student Positions starting in January/February 2009.

(1) The first project is part of a Ph.D. fellowship program (Graduiertenkolleg) and is aimed at elucidating the role of endogenous catecholamines in the regulation of immune responses during infection. Applicants for this project should hold a master/diploma degree in life sciences and should have a strong background in immunology and molecular biology.

(2) The second project is focused on behavioral conditioning of immune functions in healthy subjects and in patients with allergic disease. Applicants for this project should hold a master/diploma degree in psychology or biology and should have a strong background in behavioral sciences.

(3) The third project addresses the neural mechanisms underlying chronic pain and placebo analgesia in patients and healthy subjects using functional magnetic resonance imaging (fMRI). Applicants for this project should have background in psychology and/or neuroscience. Experience in neuro-imaging is preferable but not mandatory.

(4) The fourth project analyses effects of inflammation on neuro-cognitive functions and behaviour in healthy subjects using fMRI. Applicants for this project should have background in psychology and/or neuroscience. Experience in neuro-imaging and/or neuro-immunology is preferable but not mandatory.

Projects are funded by the German Research Foundation (DFG) or the Volkswagen Foundation. The selected candidates will work in an interdisciplinary research environment with excellent infrastructure and access to state of the art equipment. High motivation, team spirit and dedication to interdisciplinary work are expected.

Interested individuals are invited to submit an electronic application, including a detailed CV, a summary of training/research experience, and two references to:
